It is a specification on how a particular software should interact with the particular machine. It doesn't seem to be a specification for the CNC, but for the program that runs on the CNC. Coding sequence polymorphisms of the alcohol dehydrogenase-2 gene and the risk of breast cancer in Korean women. A functional polymorphism in the alcohol dehydrogenase-2 (ADH-2) gene was studied to evaluate the association with breast cancer in Korean women. DNA samples from 221 patients and 198 controls were obtained. The frequency of the ADH-2*3 was higher in patients than in controls (7.0% versus 2.5%; $P=0.0005$, adjusted odds ratio=4.56, 95% confidence interval=1.81-11.49). The ADH-2*3 carriers had an increased risk of breast cancer (odds ratio=7.19, 95% confidence interval=1.21-40.26). Additional analyses revealed that women with the ADH-2*3 allele and positive family history of breast cancer had a 17.9-fold increased risk of breast cancer (95% confidence interval=1.92-156.9). This polymorphism may be associated with the increased risk of breast cancer in Korean women. France's new Socialist leader won the election on Sunday, beating rival far-left candidate Jean-Luc Mélenchon, helping him to become the country's youngest leader since Napoleon. Prime Minister Edouard Philippe and President Emmanuel Macron hailed the election result, saying it was an "exception" and a "victory for democracy". "The French have honoured their commitment to change," Mr Macron said in a televised address to the nation after Mr Philippe declared victory. He added: "The turnout and participation in the presidential election is an exception and a victory for democracy". Sunday's election was a quarter of a century after the last French president, Nicolas Sarkozy, was defeated by the untested François Hollande in 2012. Mr Macron became the youngest holder of the office in 2007 when the Socialist candidate was Mr Hollande. Sunday'

They are both free but you will need to pay for access to whatever designs you would like to reverse engineer. One is Inventor by Autodesk. The other is SoftarchiX. Both are super easy to use and will get the job done. After you reverse engineer and understand the software then there are other applications to create your own designs or create new designs if you can figure out how. It really depends on what you want to make. You can make a wooden version of some other 3d printing device/software by taking the binder clip idea. Most printers will hold pieces of wood up in the space where the print head is. You would want to drill a hole in a piece of wood and place this on the wood piece. If there is a place on the side of the printer to stick the wooden part there could be a post with a hole in it. Then you could tape the wooden binder clip to the wood piece and slide it to the side. If you do this you won't have to use the wire cutter. You could use something else. A shaver could work too. Below is a picture of a wooden binder clip I made. The only thing you might need to figure out is the size of the hole to insert your wooden piece in the wood piece. Make it big enough for the wood to fit into but not so big that the binder clip might be too big to close. Inventor is really simple to use and for the most part will work the same way any other 3d design software might. I haven't used a lot of that software so I am not very familiar with that part.
